

On Thursday, August 24, 2017 at 4:05 PM ET

Spark Networks Prevails in Patent Infringement Case

Delaware District Court Dismisses All Claims Against Company

LOS ANGELES, CA / ACCESSWIRE / August 24, 2017 / Spark Networks, Inc. (NYSE American: LOV) today announced that the United States District Court for the District of Delaware ruled to dismiss all claims against the Company brought by Jedi Technologies, Inc. alleging patent infringement on the part of Spark Networks and certain affiliates.

"We are pleased that the Delaware District Court reached the right conclusion in its ruling on this matter," said Danny Rosenthal, Chief Executive Officer of Spark Networks. "The filing of false claims regarding patent infringement designed purely to generate monetary gains is all too common. The Court's decision unequivocally denies the claims against Spark and we hope sends a clear message to others who might pursue similar actions."

About Spark Networks, Inc.:

The Spark Networks portfolio of consumer Web sites includes, among others, JDate®.com (www.jdate.com), ChristianMingle®.com (www.christianmingle.com), JSwipe (www.jswipeapp.com), CROSSPATHS (www.crosspathsapp.com), LDSSingles (www.ldssingles.com), BlackSingles.com® (www.blacksingles.com), and SilverSingles®.com (www.silversingles.com).

For More Information

Investors:
Robert O'Hare
rohare@spark.net

SOURCE: Spark Networks, Inc.